What is Iaido?: Iaido (ee-eye-doh) is the art of simultaneously drawing and cutting with the Japanese long sword (katana). The art of iaido would appear to be a simple one. The student sits or stands quietly, draws out a blade and cuts through the air all in one stroke, then puts the sword away again. To the casual observer, there is not a lot to see. Iaido is an exacting art which demands a high level of focus and mental concentration. It is an art of precise motions with only centimetres of tolerance and split second timing. It is also an individual art that involves the student and the sword struggling to achieve perfection of form.

Beyond this physical aspect, iaido is also a philosophically oriented Japanese budo art. The name "iaido" itself is composed of three ideograms: "I", "AI" and "DO". "I" means to "reside" or "be" in a certain place; "AI" means "harmony"; and "DO" means "road" or "path". Hence, "iaido" means the path to finding harmony in any situation in which one finds oneself – to be prepared for any eventuality.

What is Jodo?: Jodo (jo-doh) is the art of the short wooden staff (approximately 4’ in length). We study the art and techniques of the Jo used against an opponent armed with a Japanese sword (katana).

Schools Taught

- Iaido: Muso Jikiden Eishin Ryu (MJER)
- Sei Tei Iai (Zen Ken Ren Iaido)
- Jodo: Sei Tei Jo (Zen Ken Ren Jodo)
